INCREASING LGBTQ WORKPLACE INCLUSION TOGETHER

NORTHERN TERRITORY TROPICAL REACH

Pride in Diversity is the national peak body focused on LGBTQ workplace inclusion engaging with over 300 organisations who employ over 2,500,000 employees around Australia. Members have requested we take the conversation about LGBTQ workplace diversity and inclusion to the Northern Territory, which we are thrilled to do virtually. The program is open to the wider community of employers and employees in the Northern Territory, including state and local governments, small businesses and community employers. We aim to assist organisations and their teams on their journey of LGBTQ inclusion within workplaces, and share challenges, opportunities and better practices from across Australia and internationally.

On 5 November, we will chair a virtual series of events focusing on awareness and enablement. Specifically, it will include discussions on critical elements of LGBTQ inclusion gleaned from the Australian Workplace Equality Index (AWEI) benchmark and other research. The intent is to address questions about what is next for organisations, leaders, HR professionals and employee networks.
